

Ring 1- (Sikke Series)

This ring is part of the Sikke series of rings that are based off the coins of India. They focus on the aspect of Indian patterns that have come to identify Indian art but are adopted versions of victorian patterns from the British Empire. This ring in particular incorporates motifs from the most modern version of the Indian Rupee coins on its ends. Made in 925 Sterling Silver.

Ring 2- (Sikke Series)

This ring is part of the Sikke series of rings that are based off the coins of India. They focus on the aspect of Indian patterns that have come to identify Indian art but are adopted versions of victorian patterns from the British Empire. This ring is wrapped with the lotus patterned motifs from the Indian Rupee coins minted in 2012. Made in 925 Sterling Silver.

Ring 3- (Sikke Series)

This ring is part of the Sikke series of rings that are based off the coins of India. They focus on the aspect of Indian patterns that have come to identify Indian art but are adopted versions of victorian patterns from the British Empire. This ring is imprinted with the victorian-esque style of the ¼ Anna from 1852 India. Made in Bronze.

Ring 4- (Sikke Series)

This ring is part of the Sikke series of rings that are based off the coins of India. They focus on the aspect of Indian patterns that have come to identify Indian art but are adopted versions of victorian patterns from the British Empire. This ring further develops the less significant motifs from all the 2012 Rupee coins and glorifies them in weight and importance. Made in 925 Sterling Silver.

Ring Pair- Permanent Mark

This pair of rings was made for partners. Each ring has one of each partner's fingerprints on it. The ring with the partner's fingerprint goes to the other partner. Made in 925 Sterling Silver.

Porcupillo-

This hybrid animal is made entirely of copper sheet that was bent up and pierced to create a 3D figure. It is inspired by both an armadillo and a porcupine, hence, the name.

The Oracle-

This piece is made to predict your death. It is a satirical play on how everyone is afraid of dying, but don't live to the fullest either. It uses the reader's favorite food, color and their horoscope to predict the time they have left. It is made of copper, cold joined together and etched.

Repousse- Sikke Series

This piece is a direct representation of the a Five Rupee coin from India. It is made of hammered and textured copper.

Vessel- Sikke Series

This vessel is made of copper in three separate pieces. It is inspired by my home country-India. The bottom two pieces of the vessel are raised, pierced and etched pieces of copper that represent the national flower of India- the Lotus. The top piece is pierced with an abstracted version of the map of India. It is tinned on the inside and colored black on the outside. Each of these pieces is removable for easy packing.

Khaana Banana-

This series represents my favorite foods from home. There are a total of five dishes here- bhindi, kaddhi, biryani, chai and lassi. They have all been enamelled onto copper disks over layers of layers. The cutlery and vessels were not made by me. I named this series Khaana Banana because in Hindi this means making food, and I wanted to take about the process of making my favorite foods in my favorite medium- metal.
